Introduction: About Affordable Rental Housing

Affordable housing refers to housing that is reasonably priced for individuals or families with very low to moderate incomes. The key for affordable housing is that the cost of rent should not exceed a certain percentage of a household's income, typically 30% to 40%. This ensures that people can afford other basic living expenses such as food, healthcare, and transportation.

Ongoing rental assistance programs are designed for individuals and families that meet income eligibility guidelines. Many local rental assistance programs and affordable housing options are available to help you search for what meets your needs.

NAMES AND ACRONYMS FOR PUBLIC HOUSING AGENCIES

Housing agencies go by different acronyms depending upon the services offered to the public, but each offers some type of rental assistance.

- HRA Housing and Redevelopment Authority
- HA Housing Authority
- PHA Public Housing Authority
- CDA Community Development Agency
- (H)EDA (Housing) Economic Development Authority

TERMS USED IN THIS BOOKLET

- If you need more definitions, Housing Benefits 101 maintains a glossary of housing terms here at this link \(mn.hb101.org/glossary.htm\)

Fixed-rent	Refers to an unchanging amount of rent for a specified period, regardless of changes in market conditions. Rent for these types of units is not income-based.
Income-based	These are developments in which rent is determined by the income of the tenant. For example, the rent may be 30% to 40% of income. If the tenant's income changes, the rent may also change.
Market rate	Refers to rents that are based on the current demand, amenities, building age and condition, and so forth.
Private market	Refers to a unit available for rent that is owned by an individual or business.
Project-based	These are rental units built and managed as part of a specific development, often with government subsidies, to provide low-income individuals or families with stable, affordable housing.
Public housing	Refers to government-owned housing. The rent is income-based, and the subsidy stays with the unit.
Section 8/Housing Choice Voucher (HCV)	This is a federal program in the U.S. that provides rental assistance to low-income families by subsidizing a portion of the rent.  Eligible HCV applicants receive a subsidy, called a voucher, which they can use to help pay for housing in the private rental market. The amount of the voucher is based on the household's income and the local area's rental costs.
Subsidized	In housing, "subsidized" means a government-sponsored program that helps low-income people pay for rent. The government directly pays landlords to reduce rent for tenants with low incomes.
Tax-credit property	This is a housing unit built or renovated with the help of Low-Income Housing Tax Credits (LIHTC), which provides tax incentives to developers in exchange for offering affordable rents to low-income tenants.
